BIG BATTLE AT MANILLA.

Spaniards Were Repulsed With Large Loss.

MANILLA, Aug. 9, (Special cable to the News).—On the night of July 31, the Spanish troops, 3,000 strong, attacked the American forces at Manila, near Manila. The Americans with two regiments repulsed the Spaniards, killing 200 and wounding 300 of the enemy. The fight occurred during a raging storm, our soldiers killing the enemy by the light of the lightning. The Spaniards again attacked the Americans on the night of the 1st and 2nd of August but were again repulsed with a loss of 50 killed and 50 wounded. A general attack is expected. During the engagement the rebels were neutral. The Monterey with three transports has arrived.

DONS WANT TO SWAP.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 9, (Special to the News).—Spain's peace reply has not yet been transmitted. It is said that the terms will be accepted but they are discussed with much vivacity. The reply says that Cuba not be turned over to the insurgents and that Spain's Pacific possessions be awarded for Porto Rico.

A HOT TIME.

Colored Population Celebrate Emancipation Day.

The colored population was in its glory Saturday. A big picnic was held at La-Hell's grove by the members of Cloverport Lodge U. B. F. and Marion Temple S. M. Y.

The ceremonies of the day started with a grand free street parade. The principal attraction was Aleck Robinson mounted upon a fiery charger that cavorted and careened about as if it was the whole thing.

A TRIO OF SQUALLS.

Break The Monotony Of Three Men's Lives.

August first was a red letter day to Bill Winchell, of Tohivore—came a lusty, bon-bing boy that the neighbors say looks like his papa.

August third was a gay day to Carl Benlen—came a pretty little girl that fills her papa's heart with joy that passes understanding.

Regulating Old-time Popularity.

The Spaniards are regaining their old-time popularity, for an unusually large number of people are now journeying there and are deriving the benefits of the life giving and healing waters. It will again become the leading health resort of the state.

WILD AND WOOLLY

Was Saturday Night's Scrap on Wall Street.

One Man Severely Struck and Another Shot.

AGGRESSOR PUT UNDER BOND.

About 11 o'clock Saturday night an altercation arose in Beavin's saloon on Wall street that resulted in the shooting of George Graham and the shooting of Aleck Hall.

From what can be learned it seems that Hall, who is a tenant on Winchell's farm on the Shepherd road, while intoxicated became quite boisterous in the saloon. Graham, it is said, ordered Hall to make less noise and on the latter's failure to do so, attempted to put him out.

In the struggle that ensued Hall, it is alleged, used a knife upon Graham with terrible effect. Eyewitnesses say that were not for the interference of Charlie Mayhall and Ives O'Brien Graham would have been killed.

Notwithstanding the fact that he had been terribly stabbed in five places, Graham followed his adversary and shot him through the leg as he was running across the street. The bullet passed through the member and slanted a pane of glass in the door of Boyd & Mattingly's saloon.

After the trouble Graham was taken to Henry Slater's room across the street and Dr. Watkins was summoned. The latter quickly dressed the numerous ugly wounds and Graham was removed to his home.

After he had been shot Hall went to Dr. Owens and had his wound dressed. When this had been done the city marshal placed him under arrest and locked him up in jail.

On Tuesday he was charged with stabbing and cutting while in the heat of passion. He waived examination and was put under bond.

Web Shadwick, young in years and old in crime, was arrested at Hartlineburg Friday by Sheriff F. B. Barton on a charge of horse stealing. The prisoner was brought to this city by Sheriff Barton who took the train here for Owensboro, the alleged theft having occurred in Davison county.

One of the sweetest as well as one of the most delightful social functions of the season was the breakfast and card party given by Mrs. W. U. Smart last Friday morning in honor of her sister, Mrs. Geo. T. Moore.

SHOOTING WILL BEGIN.

Dogs and Their Owners Will Be Victims.

City Clerk D'Hay says that there are only 30 dogs out of the million or more that infect the city, that have any right to existence. Since the first of the month only thirty dog owners have taken out licenses as against 70 last year. On the twentieth the city marshal will be instructed to arrest delinquent owners and shoot all stray dogs and then there will be fun and amusement for everybody except the victims.

Successful Revival.

Rev. Clay Moorman, one of the brightest young preachers in this county is conducting a successful revival meeting in the handsome new church at Roetta. He is an original and forceful speaker and has San Jones' faculty of describing sin in the right kind of language and plugging it between the eyes.

Good Work.

Road overseer Mercer is making extensive improvements on the Irvington and Roetta road. This highway, under his fine system of working, has been so improved that it is now one of the best in the county.

Bought 6,000 Bushels.

Owles Bros., the local millers, have purchased about 6,000 bushels of wheat from the farmers in this section since wheat threshing began. The farmers show a disposition to hold their wheat for a better price.

Uncle Johnnie Pate Dead.

Uncle Johnnie Pate, the aged dandy who has been one of the characters of the town for years past, died last Thursday. He was 71 years of age. A number of white people as well as those of his own race mourn his loss.

CONGRESSMAN DAVE SMITH

Fires the Opening Gun of His Campaign.

Pledges Himself Anew to the Platform of 1896.

There was a large crowd at the picnic at Custer last Saturday. The voters from all over that bailiwick gathered there to hear the opening gun of the campaign fired by Hon. David H. Smith, the present congressman, who is desirous of succeeding himself in the house.

As everyone knows, Dave is a silver democrat, and he again pledged himself anew to the cause of state rights and the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

He spoke of the efforts of organized capital and monopoly to depreciate the money of the country and to curtail its circulation. He ripped the trusts up the back and gave plutocracy a black eye, in fact he blacked both its eyes.

He told his hearers that the promised Republican property had not arrived and owing to a mistake in the schedule it is sidetracked somewhere between Wall street and Lombard street. He accused the money power of taking advantage of the war with Spain by forcing and gobbling up the bond issues.

He said that as the United States had become master of the high seas as well as the land it could formulate and maintain its own financial as well as governmental policy and defend them against the world.

The speech was entirely in accordance with the platform of 1896. No expression was made as to his views on the question of national expansion.

Dr. R. H. McMillen, of McDaniell, the populist nominee for congressional honor in this district, was present and took advantage of the occasion to introduce himself to the people. He made a formal announcement of his candidacy and said that it was only a patriotic sense of duty that caused him to neglect a lucrative practice to enter the race.

Castoria.

The residence of Daniel Arns, a prominent farmer, near Hardinsburg, was completely destroyed by fire Monday. Origin unknown. No insurance.

Painful Accident.

Uncle Charlie Bates, the faithful old colored hostler at Adkinson's livery stable fell from a loft and was badly hurt about the head Friday. He is 83 years of age and was the first negro born in Cloverport.

Delightful Party.

The Misses Elizabeth and Marguerite Skilman tendered a number of young people a party at beautiful Cedarwood, Saturday in honor of their little guest, Miss Ruth Graham. A splendid time was had.

Peter Leslie Dead.

Peter Leslie, one of the best known men in the county and a prominent old soldier, died at his home near Hardinsburg, Monday morning.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY.

Cloverport now has a brilliant opportunity to become an educational center more than local renown. Possessing, as she does, the healthiest and most beautiful site on the Ohio river, a citizenship that is noted for its fidelity to all the civic virtues, and a school building that is a credit to the town, this city, more than all others in this section, is adapted by its environment and facilities to the requirements of a seat of learning. We have churches and a God-fearing people. The moral tone of the community is exceptionally high. Now that we have secured the services of Professor Hancock as principal of our school we should see to it that steps be taken to aid him in making his work here valuable to the city. A special tax should be voted that will yield sufficient revenue to maintain a nine month's school. Were this done it would attract to Cloverport a number of well-to-do farmers who would move from the country and make this their home where they might educate their children. The acquisition of so desirable an element would be of incalculable good. It would create a demand for the best class of rental property. It would enhance realty values. It would be the means of increasing by thousands of dollars annually, the trade of our merchants.

A good school advances population.
A good school dispels ignorance and promotes enlightenment.
A good school elevates the standard of public morals.
A generous expenditure of money for educational purposes is the best investment that a community can make.

These are truths and if we ignore them we are standing in our own light. Let us awake to our opportunities and give such financial aid as will make this the best school in Kentucky. It will breed cast upon the waters that will bring profitable returns.

BRECKENRIDGE crops and the sun of prosperity makes the pathway of the farmer a bright and pleasant one to follow in fair old Breckenridge.

This number of Cloverport boys who participated in the battle of San Juan demonstrates that our patriotism is not the brass band kind.

MISSA's boundless triumphal march through Porto Rico is as brilliant as military exploits as Joshua's operations against the city of Jericho.

SPAIN'S delay in according to Uncle Sam's peace terms would indicate that she is coquetting with a dynamite bomb or preparing a feather bed to fall on.

The ninety-year-old Glasgow, Ky. man, who succumbed the other day, took a long time to make up his mind and decide that life was not worth living.

RENTAL property is scarce in Cloverport and the man who takes advantage of the opportunity to erect a few dwellings will find it a profitable investment.

CLOVERPORT's prestige as an educational center will be built up and maintained if the people give Prof. Hancock and his faculty the proper encouragement.

CAPTAIN-GENERAL BLANCO at the beginning of the war said that no power on earth could prevent Spain from coming out of the conflict victorious. Now he says the European power compelled her.

when the Creator said to woman, "In sorrow shalt thou bring forth children," that a curse was pronounced, that a curse was pronounced, but the joy felt by every Mother when she first presses to her heart her babe, proves the contrary. Danger and suffering lurk in the pathway of the Expectant Mother, and should be avoided, that she may reach the hour when the hope of her vision is to be realized, in full vigor and health.

I note what Falls of Rogh says about my remarks on gossip and tattlers. only succeed in making themselves miserable.

The diphtheria scare last week was something like the cholera frights I can remember in the early fifties here when we all fled for safer parts. There were three cases reported at the Lucile Home and one in a private family when immediately a panic ensued and fully sixty people left. One little girl at the home, Maudie Slaton, from Breckenridge county six years old died, but doctor Pusey reported pneumonia with diphtheria. Little Maudie was a sweet, affectionate little tot and will be missed, especially by Little Mabel, her sister. Their mother came up to see them but not until Little Maudie had closed her eyes forever and the little lips could not lip "mamma's," for whom she grieved just as other little ones would do. Anti Toxine has been used and the cases at the Home and one other are relieved. No new cases and the families have subsided.

Sancy Hanks, one of the Messenger's brightest stars, has dipped her quill in vitriol to score the evangelist, Sam P. Jones. She is honest, she is candid and I admire her. She could take Mr. Gerald's vacant chair in the office of the Iconoclast and wield the lamented Brannan's pen. But Nancy did not cause to be the gospel and she was regrettable Sam to preach the gospel from the high standard of Talmage and the late Henry Ward Beecher. Talmage is as sensational in his manner of presenting the gospel and as peculiar in his appeals to the people as the noted evangelist—only he handles his adjectives and adverbs to modify differently. In many of his sermons he makes some of the broadest, boldest most subtle insinuations I ever read. He clothes his ideas in sensational high flows and far fetched similes and metaphors. His whole philosophy is one of hyperbole, and when you sum up any one of his discourses you will find it is a San Jose couched in little more than a historic and Henry Ward Beecher! Peace to his ashes!—Sam Jones freely admit he was half hog and half man till twenty-four but after that by the power of God he was regenerated and became a whole hog.

Henry Ward Beecher always posed as a fallow, spotted, immaculate latter day saint till brought before the world in the most scandalous court proceedings that ever darkened a docket. To rehearse the evidence and the trial would cause the blush of shame to mantle the cheek of any Christian in the land! Anything but a "wolf in sheep's clothing,"—anything but a "whited sepulcher without and within unclean," anything but religion for a cloak. Sam Jones has left the sting of sin. He is prepared to deal with sin in its own way. He is reaching all causes rich, poor, high and low. The only difference between him and Talmage is that he uses straight out phrases, blunt language, while De Witt's uses his historic Majesty round the stump.

Old Abolitionist Dead.

The last of the old-time abolition agitators is gone. Parker Pillsbury died at Concord, N. H., a few days ago at the age of 89. He outlived all other lecturing agents of the New England anti-slavery movement. In 1833 Mr. Pillsbury made a lecture in England to help on the emancipation movement. He was called "the sage-hammer of the abolitionists." Mrs. Pillsbury died last February, aged 83.

Dangerous Drinking Water.

Death lurks in impure water. It breeds diseases often in epidemic form. The first symptom is looseness of the bowels. These diseases are checked by taking Foley's Colic Cure.—A. R. Fisher, Cloverport; R. A. Shellman, Stephensport; Gordon & Haynes, Pataville; E. K. Witt, Hardinsburg.

ARE STARVING.

People of Besieged Havana in Terrible Straits.

The Press quotes from a letter written by the wife of a wealthy Cuban to her sister in New York. It reached New York by way of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and was mailed in Havana more than three weeks ago. The writer says: "The little food we have had at home is buried in the cellar, and when we could get it we hide in an upstairs room so that the starving people can not look through the windows and see us. When we are in the dining room they would break in and snatch our food away. We know if they were to see us eating now they would take away our last piece of bread and meat. It is unsafe for any one to be caught eating."

One Minute Cough Cure surprises people by its quick cure, and children may take it in large quantities without the least danger. It has won for itself the best reputation of any preparation used today for colds, coughs, tickling in the throat or obstinate coughs—Short & Haynes.

YANKEE INEVITABILITY.

How Canby Scared Enemies With Wood's Canine.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Confederate veteran who fought at Fort Blakeley read the other day of the dummy gun used by the Spaniards around Santiago de Cuba to humbug the American troops.

"Ah," said he, "that reminds me of old times. It also reminds me that wooden guns have been known to serve better purposes than their iron counterparts."

"Wooden guns did really work better for Fort Blakeley. The Yankees fired them up and they shot just as well as if they had been manufactured of iron. The opposing lines were 500 yards apart. The Confederates were behind the walls of the fort and the federals were strongly intrenched."

"Gen. Canby, the Yankee commander was without artillery. What did he do but manufacture 100 mortars from black gun staves. Black gun staves grew everywhere in the vicinity. He bored them out, put in bar bands around them and fired 8-inch shells furnished by Farragut's fleet. The lines were so close that light charges sufficed and the 'stone' and 'iron' weapons did all that was asked of them."

Yellow Jaundice Cured.

Suffering jaundice could be supplied with every means possible for its relief. It is with pleasure we publish the following: "This is to certify that I was a terrible sufferer from Yellow Jaundice for over six months, and was treated by some of the best physicians in our city and all to no avail. Dr. H. Bell, of Lexington, recommended Electric Bitters; and after taking two bottles, I was entirely cured. I now take great pleasure in recommending them to any person suffering from this terrible malady. I am gratefully yours, M. A. Hogarty, Lexington, Ky."

A Husband's Reproof.

"After the day when Humphrey was shot at (May 7, 1864) by Earl Bland, his wife said: 'I'll be in heaven and save the villain standing on the top of a ladder leading down to hell I would have no hesitation in giving him a push.' 'Hush, my dear,' replied Humphrey, 'you won't need to be heaven yourself with such thoughts as those.'"

UNCLE SAM'S NEW ISLAND.

Porto Rico, Chief Cities, its Population and Resources.

The Island of Porto Rico is 3,608 miles in extent. It is thirty-five miles long and thirty-five miles broad, and has a population, according to the latest figures, made in 1887, of 1,035,077, of which more than 300,000 are negroes.

There are 137 miles of railway and about 100 miles of wagon road. All other traveling and transportation must be done by mules and riding horses. There are 470 miles of telegraph lines and telephone systems in the principal cities. In 1885 the total value of imports was $16,150,000, and of exports $14,029,494. In 1887 the United States sent imports to the island to the value of $2,181,021, and received exports valued at $1,088,888. In 1888 the exports to Spain were $5,435,760, and there was received from Spain $7,328,880. There is a large tobacco crop now growing which promises well.

The principal city is San Juan, situated on a small island connected with the mainland by a bridge. At the other end of the island are the high cliffs which support El Morro Castle. The harbor entrance is one of great difficulty, except under the most favorable conditions, but a broad and beautiful bay is concealed behind it. The smaller island is two and a quarter miles long and averages a quarter of a mile in width. The city is a complete walled town, with portenils, moat, gates and battlements. Although over 230 years old, it is still in good condition.

Inside the walls the city is laid off in regular squares, six parallel streets running in the direction of the length of the island and seven at right angles. The houses are closely and compactly built, brick, usually of two stories, stuccoed on the outside and painted in a variety of colors.

The upper floors are occupied by the more respectable people, while the ground floors, almost without exception, are given up to negroes and the poorer class, who crowd upon one another in the most appalling manner. The population within the walls is estimated at 20,000, and most of it lives on the fifth floor, where everything reeks with filth, and conditions are most unsanitary. The entire population depends upon rain water caught upon the flat roofs of the buildings and conducted to the cisterns. Inside the walls the water is carried in the inner courtyard, while vaults occupy whatever remaining space there may be in the patio.

Epidemics are frequent, and the town is infested with vermin, flies, cockroaches, mosquitoes and dogs. The streets are wider than in the older part of Havana, and will admit two carriages abreast. They are swept once a day by hand, and are kept clean. The soil under the city furnishes a good natural drainage. The trade wind blows strong and fresh, and the sea has a stream of water at a speed of not less than three miles an hour. With these conditions, no contagious diseases, if properly taken care of, could exist.

There are several small suburbs without the walled city, and the total population was estimated at 30,000 in 1896. There is but little manufacturing and that of small importance. The Standard Oil Company has a small refinery and there is an electric light plant. The climate is warm, and except for three months agreeable. There are sudden changes and much lung trouble, especially among the natives.

Ponce is the second city of importance, situated on the south coast, about two miles from sea level, and has a population of about 15,000. It is the residence of the military commander and the seat of an official Chamber of Commerce. There is a Catholic church and the only Protestant church in the Spanish West Indies. The inhabitants are principally occupied in mercantile pursuits. Its exports are sugar, 5,000 inhabitants, where vessels of 25 feet draft can be accommodated in the harbor. This is said to be the healthiest spot on the island.

Mayaguez is the third city, is situated in the west part, facing "Mons. Channel." There are three manufacturing of chocolate for local consumption. Sugar, coffee, oranges, pineapples and coconuts are exported largely—almost, except coffee, principally to the United States. Of sugar the municipality goes to the United States and the rest is exported to Spain. Mayaguez is the second port for coffee, the average annual export being 170,000 hundredweight. About 50,000 bags of flour are imported to this port every year from the United States. The population is nearly 20,000, the majority white. The climate is excellent, never exceeding 90 degrees Fahrenheit.

Agua de la Florida is the northern portion of the island, has 5,000 inhabitants. In the town are three establishments for preparing coffee for exportation. The climate is hot, but healthy.

Arrebo, with 7,000 inhabitants, is situated on the north coast. The harbor is poor, being nothing more than an open roadstead. Goods are conveyed on the river to and from the town in flat-bottomed boats, with the aid of long poles. At the bar of the river every thing is again transferred into lighters and thence to mules.

The town has a population of 5,779. The harbor is about one and a quarter miles from the bay. The only important industry is the manufacture of macabayo sugar. Shooks, hickory hods, pine boards and provisions come from the United States in considerable quantities. Sugar and molasses are exported and occasionally tobacco also. The climate is temperate and healthy. Nagabo is a town of 1,000 inhabitants.

The capital of the department, Havana, is nine miles distant, and has 4,000 inhabitants—the district comprising more than 15,000.

Arroyo is a seaport of 1,200 inhabitants. The annual exports to the United States average 7,000 to 10,000 bushels of sugar, 2,000 to 5,000 casks of molasses and fifty to 150 casks and barrels of bay rum.

OLD GREENBACK

An Interesting Relic That Recalled the War.

From Washington Post.

There was paid over the counter at the Treasury Department Monday a $10 bill of a kind I think few of us have ever seen. It was worn completely through in places, though it had been in the possession of the man who presented it almost since its issue. It bore in gold letters on its face the words, "Compound interest creases money." It was issued December 30, 1864, under the act of Congress of June 30 of that year and was numbered 409,583. On the back was printed the statement:

"By act of Congress this note is a legal tender for ten dollars, but bears interest at 1 per cent compounded every six months, though payable only at maturity, as follows." The "as follows" was a table showing the worth of the note at six-month intervals, and the elaborate explanation concluded with:

"This sum, $11.94"—shown in the table—"will be paid to holder for principal and interest at maturity of note, three years from date."

The old man who presented it seemed surprised to learn that the interest and the compounding of the interest had ceased in 1867, but he took his $11.94 and departed contentedly. The bill was an old wartime greenback, made interest-bearing in order to make it more attractive to the people for money for war expenses didn't pour into the treasury in those days as it does now.

PRIVATE JOHN ALLEN.

What He Said to the Bird While in Battle.

"I don't say I won't be frightened," he said, lapsing into the soft Southern accent which, at a glance, betrays his story. "I was always pretty much scared up when I went into an engagement, but I usually stayed it out. I remember once myself as a comrade was 'laid' behind a nice pile of rails. Gentlemen, I have long remembered that as the handsome pile of rails I ever noticed in the Southland. It was comfortable and it was picturesque. Although the bullets were whining over our heads and an occasional cannonball would go past with a rush 'n' a roar, a lack of interest in the war above us sang sweetly. My friend looked up to it and choked with emotion."

"Ah, little bird," he said, "if I had 'o' wings I wouldn't be behind a pile of rails. I'd be in good ole Mississippi 'bels' night!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Marvels of Graphophones.

One of the wonders of the end of the century is the home Graphophone, which will reproduce any kind of music, or any kind of speech. It can arrange a program of the most attractive band, orchestra or vocal music and vary it every evening. On the Graphophone one can record the human voice or any sound, and reproduce it at once. You can keep the voice of your friends to be heard whenever you wish. Graphophones made for home entertainment can be bought as low as $10. FEARFUL FORCES

Possessed by Projectiles Fired From Yankee Guns.

The Spanish battleship Pelayo is in a foot and a half of steel, but Dewey could probably sink her with the flagship Olympia and her eight inch shells. It is the experience of the navy in this war that the penetrative power of even the inch shell makes it a dangerous projectile for armored ships. The force of the shells driven by high explosives is enormous. Of course the endurance of the impact has something to do with the result of the shot. It is possible by sudden pressure to imprint the outlines of leaves and grasses on hardened copper plates. Some of the medicine shells fired by our fleet at Santiago passed entirely through the armored hulls of the Spanish ships.

HEAVIEST ENGINE.

The Giant Railway Machine of the British Isles.

Much interest was centered in the trial trip of the Great Northern engine, which is the heaviest railway engine in the British Isles. It has been made for the Great Northern Co. at their Doncaster works. It has ten wheels, four being coupled, with driving wheels of six, seven inches, and weighs 100 tons. With its tender it has a total length of 19 yards.

MR. J. E. STRE.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 8, 1894. Dr. M. M. FENNER, Fredonia, N. Y. Dear Sir—I was ill and nervous and my life became a burden to me. Lost appetite and strength and had terrible headaches, both nervous and bilious. Doctors and medicine had failed to benefit me and I was nearly distracted. Finally two bottles of your Blood and Liver Eucalypti and Nerve Compound restored me. Thank you for making it possible to procure a remedy of such power for good. I feel that I owe my life to it.

PROGRESS OF THE SOUTH.

Her Wonderful Development Since the Civil War.

A Brilliant Future Hovering up Before Her.

A pamphlet entitled "Facts About the South," prepared by the editor of the Manufacturers' Record, gives a highly encouraging view of the industrial development of the Southern States. In 1860 the assessed value of property in the South was $5,260,000,000. In spite of the enormous losses of the Civil war, the value in 1880 had increased to $7,400,000,000, and to $11,400,000,000 in 1890. The Southern investment in agricultural interests in 1890 was $3,182,000,000, and the farm products in the same year amounted to $773,000,000, a gross revenue upon the capital of 24 per cent, or about double the percentage of farming in the other sections of the country.

Farm products in the South average $7.18 per acre, and in other states $6.97 per acre. Grain production in the South in 1890 was valued at $26,172,823. The present annual value of Southern agricultural products is placed at $60,000,000. In spite of the decrease in the price of cotton, the farmers of the South receive for their crops $100,000,000 a year more than in 1880. Tilling the soil in the South is clearly a hopeful business, and such it ought to be when the advantages of climate, soil, advanced settlement and transportation are kept in mind.

Before the war the South was devoted almost exclusively to agriculture. But the new era of land includes diversified industries. The $257,244,561 invested in Southern manufacturing in 1880 expanded within the next ten years to $650,000,000, and the value of manufactured products from $47,454,777 in 1880 to $917,569,045 in 1890. Manufacturing cotton cotton goods is now a Southern rather than a Northern business. Southern coal and pig iron are destined to play an important part in the world's affairs.

West Virginia's coal fields alone are larger than those of Great Britain. It is estimated that the Southern products of mines and manufactures amounted in 1890 to $120,000,000, which added to the crops makes an aggregate for a single year of $2,100,000,000. Since 1880 over 20,000 miles of new railroad have been built in the South. In addition to it is reckoned a vast store of national wealth, such as standing timber. One-half of all remaining in the United States is in the South. The mining resources of that section are mainly untouched and their future development will go beyond the largest estimates that have been made.

Whatever may be the value of the new possessions now to be added to this country, the South can more than match them, area for area. Our Southern states, in fact, are hardly equal in size of the world when a comparison is made as to natural resources. One-half of all remaining in the United States is in the South. The mining resources of that section are mainly untouched and their future development will go beyond the largest estimates that have been made.
